KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

SUMMARY

Orange County remains one of the premier lodging investment markets in California due to its combination of coastal resort assets, convention-oriented hotels, and business-focused lodging properties. The market attracts a broad range of investor profiles, from private owners and regional operators to institutional capital seeking long-term exposure to Southern California hospitality assets. Limited availability of developable land, strong tourism fundamentals, and the presence of several high-barrier-to-entry coastal submarkets have historically supported elevated hotel values relative to many competing markets. As a result, transaction activity tends to reflect both local operating conditions and broader capital market trends.

Investment activity moderated over the past year as elevated borrowing costs and persistent valuation gaps reduced overall transaction volume compared with the stronger acquisition environment experienced in 2024. Over the past year, 15 hotels traded for a combined $234 million, below the three-year average of $311 million.

Private buyers accounted for much of the recent acquisition activity, particularly among select-service, extended-stay, and independent hotels where transaction sizes were more approachable and financing requirements less restrictive. Coastal properties continued to attract significant attention due to their scarcity and long-term replacement-cost advantages, while convention-oriented and tourism-driven assets in Anaheim benefited from investor interest tied to continued visitation growth and long-term development initiatives. The transaction landscape increasingly reflected a bifurcated market, with premium assets sustaining stronger pricing while more operationally intensive or secondary properties traded at more moderate valuations.

Several recent transactions highlight these dynamics. Larger trades remained concentrated in Anaheim and Irvine, while multiple smaller acquisitions occurred across extended-stay and select-service properties throughout the county. The most significant transaction closed in May 2026, when the 352-room Anaheim Resort Suites, which is under a ground lease, sold for $78.75 million, or $223,722 per key. In early 2026, the hotel dropped its national chain loyalty program with Choice Hotels under the Cambria Hotel & Suites brand and rebranded as Anaheim Suites Hotel. The hotel is known for its large recreation water park, pool area, and suite-style rooms.

In late 2025, several Sonesta-branded extended-stay and select-service properties traded as part of portfolio transactions involving Service Properties Trust, generally at pricing below $130,000 per key. These deals reflect growing interest from buyers focused on yield and operational stability rather than near-term appreciation.

Resort-oriented submarkets such as Newport Beach, Dana Point, and Laguna Beach continued to capture a disproportionate share of total dollar volume, supported by limited supply and strong leisure fundamentals. In contrast, Anaheim remained relatively quiet outside of the marquee portfolio sale, reflecting its concentration of larger, higher-priced assets and wider bid-ask spreads.

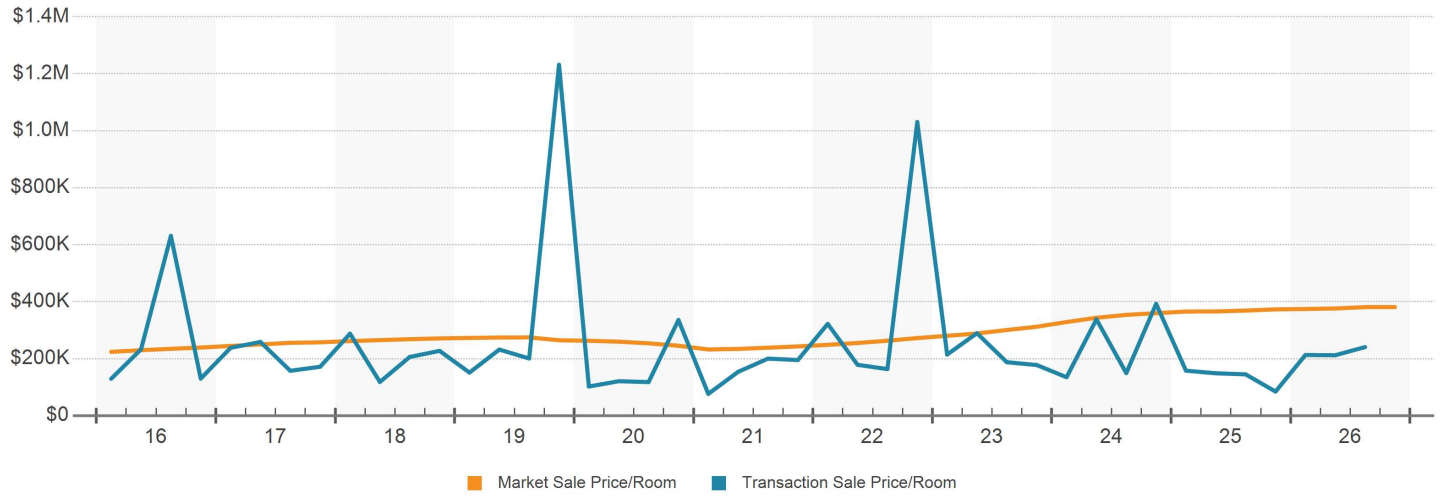

Looking ahead, transaction momentum is expected to remain measured through 2026 with sales driven by refinancing risks amidst elevated borrowing costs, and ongoing brand-mandated capital programs. While many investors remain cautious, Orange County's durable leisure appeal, coastal scarcity, and proximity to global attractions continue to attract patient capital focused on long-term value creation rather than short-term trading.
